DEDICATION OF 1979-1980 MIRROR

THE SENIOR CLASS IS PROUD TO DEDICATE
THE 1979-1980 YEARBOOK TO
MISS EILEEN DONOGHUE

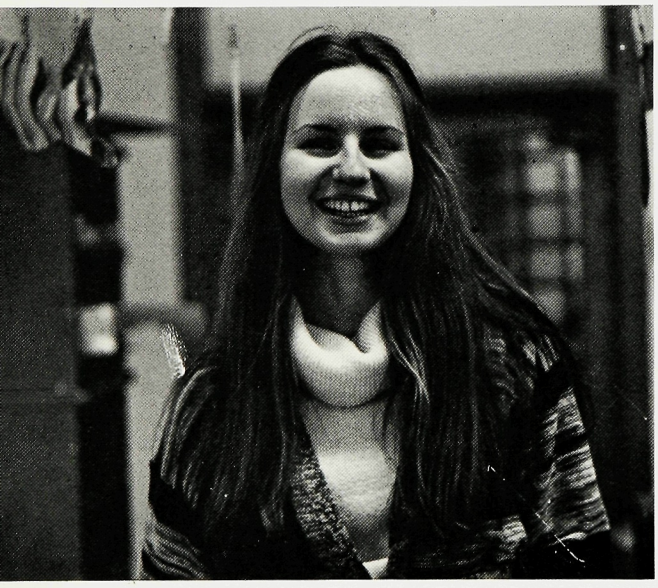

"We believe, even more than in the past, that the dedication of the yearbook has a particularily special meaning to our senior class. This year each senior participated in an election to determine who should be selected for this honor. We believe this is an honor because the yearbook was a combined effort of students from every grade in the school. Over the past four years our class has grown close to many members of the faculty. But there is one teacher who has in many ways through teaching, advising, or just being a friend, touched each one of us. We are proud of this book, and proud to dedicate it to someone whom we respect and admire as much as we do Miss Eileen Donoghue."

Popping Corn

Silent, quiet, nothing,
Sizzly, bubbly, watery,
Crackling, boiling;
Hissing like an angry cat.

Popping, flying, shooting up—
Shooting anti-aircraft plane.

Diving, falling,
Bullets flying from a gun;
Rain pounding on a pane.

More and more and more . . . . . .
. . . .
Stopping.
Silent.

I LOVE

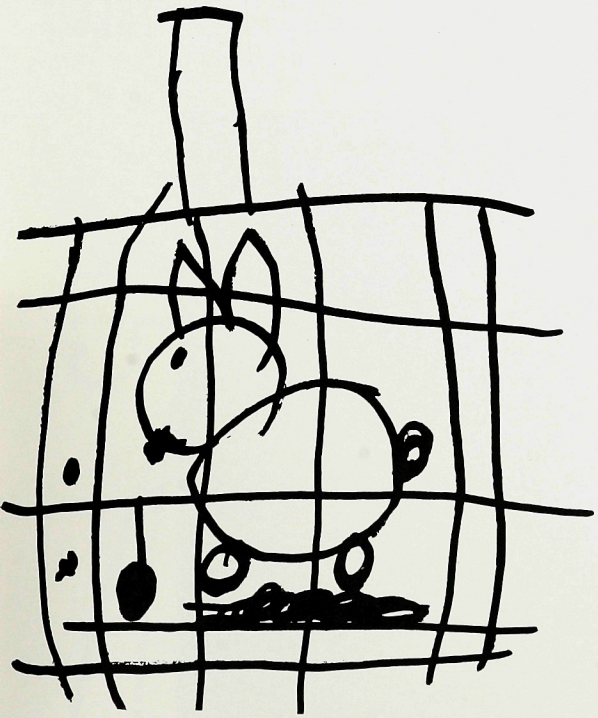

The Story of Snuggles

Once upon a time there was a bunny named Little Rabbit Foo-Foo. It was cold and he died. Then one day a lady heard the bunny died, so she gave the kindergarten a new bunny. The new bunny hopped around the school to get to know it better. And his name was Snuggles. He is grey and we love him. He hops in hiding places and he hops in cubbies. He likes to play with children. He lives in a nice, clean cage. Snuggles is cute!

HAPPY MEMORIES ON LEAVING THE LOWER SCHOOL . . .

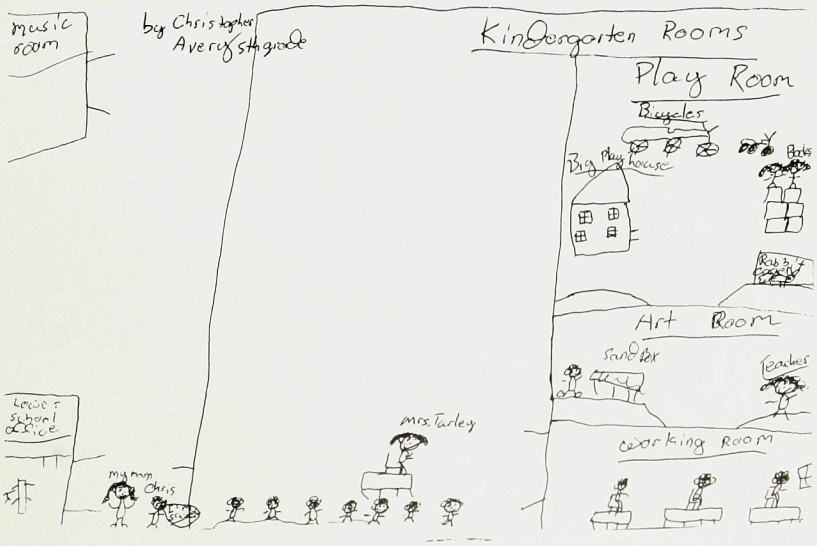

. . . My happiest memory is when I was in the third grade. In the third grade I dissected a guinea pig. We had just cut it open when all the blood came out. It was fun . . . My happiest memory from the Lower School was being accepted in the fourth grade and being able to be in such a great school . . . My happiest memory was in Kindergarten. We used to ride bicycles and play with chickens. Mrs. Turley used to read us stories, and we would call Mrs. Turley Mrs. Turkey . . . My happiest memory is when I was accepted into the opera La Boheme. Being in an opera is really much more exciting than I thought it would be. But I must admit I was ready to kill myself when I tripped over the microphone. Luckily, I didn't fall down . . . My fondest memory was in second grade. We used to have a fireplace in our room and some of the time we used to toast marshmellows. In 3rd grade we were playing kickball. The score was 12-6, I was up and Jay was pitching. The pitch came at normal speed and KABOOM! I had just kicked my first out-of-the-ballpark, a four-bagger . . . My happiest memory was when I first walked in the kindergarten doors and then I knew I was going to have lots of friends!

Follow me to my sparkling star,
A place where gundrops live in a jar,
Where jellybeans jump near and far,
Come with me to my sparkling star.

Follow me to my side of the moon,
A place where all Fuzzy Bloppers loom,
Where you can live in a candy-cane room,
Come with me to my side of the moon.

Follow me to my corner of the sky,
A place where Santa Claus lives near by,
Where kittens eat their blueberry pies,
Come with me to my corner of the sky.

—Laura Gorman—

Where the breeze blows, there I fly,
Invisible to the eye,
A floating, fleeting little fairy
Playing pranks, no burdens do I carry.
The sun and moon and flowers see
That I am always quite carefree.
Leaves and flowers come to greet me,
Hiding in the nearest birch tree.

SORROW

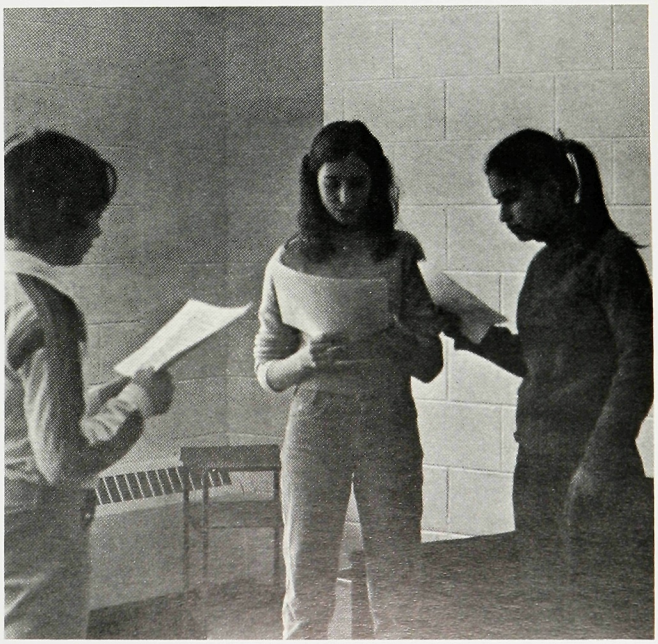

Her window looks upon the lane,
And she sees people rushing by.
How she longs to be outside
And run as healthy children do!

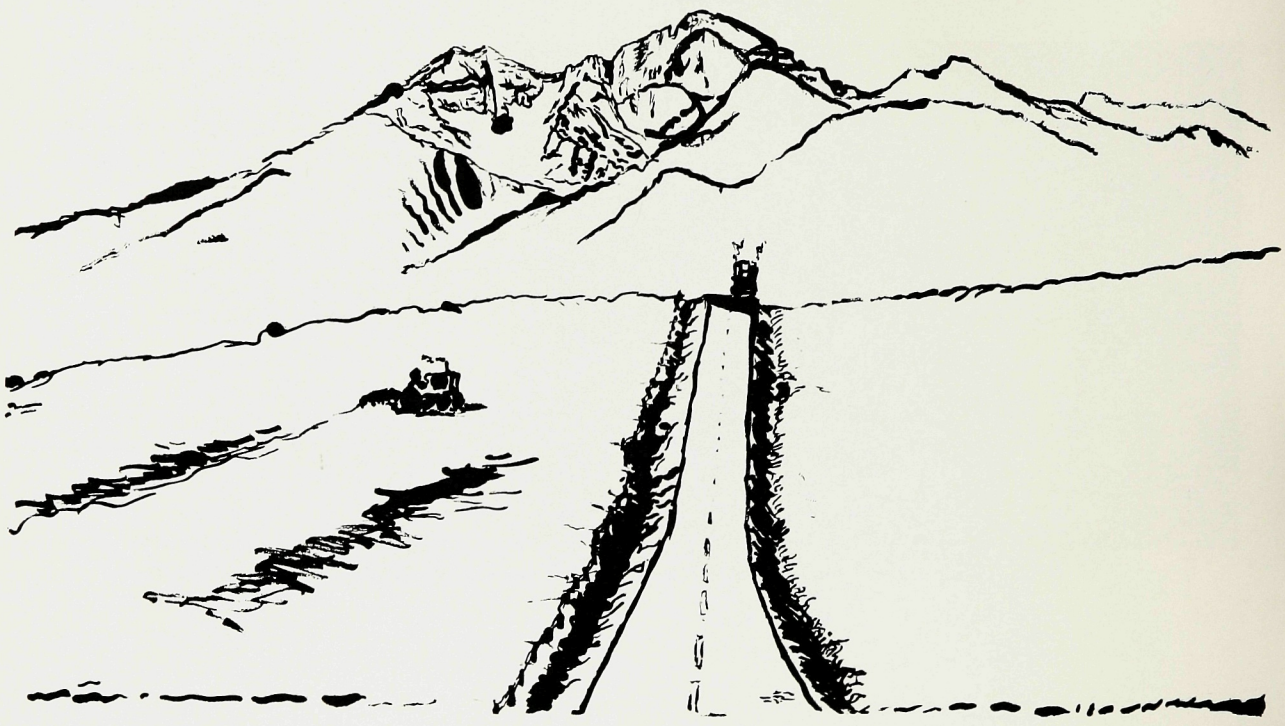

As she watches a lone stray dog
Being kicked by some children,
Anger wells up inside her
And her pale, weak hands form fists.
She wants to help it
But she knows she can't.

Her hands drop
And hang limply at her sides.
She bows her head and a single teardrop
Falls on the cold metal
Of the chair that binds her
To unhappiness and sorrow.

"Daddy's girl.
Is packed and ready to go.
With her life stuffed into one trunk,
and three cardboard boxes,
and a biodegradeable shopping bag.
Her hair is unbrushed,
her shoelaces untied,
but she's still daddy's little girl.
Tomorrow. . .
She'll be alone in an empty dorm,
hanging posters on empty walls,
and eating dry fruit loops.
But today. . .
Daddy's little girl sits on a trunk amidst cardboard boxes with her Raggedy Ann doll in her arms."

ON THE EVE OF HIS EXECUTION

"My prime of youth is but a frost of cares,
My feast of joy is but a dish of pain,
My crop of corn is but a field of tares,
And all my good is but vain hope of gain;
The day is past, and yet I saw no sun,
And now I live, and now my life is done.

My tale was heard and yet it was not told,
My fruit is fallen, yet my leaves are green,
My youth is spent and yet I am not old,
I saw the world and yet I was not seen;
My thread is cut and yet it is not spun,
And now I live, and now my life is done."

IF I COULD MEET YOU NOW

"If I could meet you now,
these long years after,
in manner of fashion
I would cup your face
within my two still hands,
and softly, without passion,
I would kiss your lips,
and tell you all of my life
since last we met.

Then you would ask me
of people we used to know, until at last
this lovely day should wane,
and we would part again,
taking our separate ways,
and there, mid-way between the pain and laughter,
I would let you go,
gently, without ever showing, that I shall love you to the end of days."

With nakedness my shield.

North Shore still low key

By Taylor Bell

Even the possibility of winning a state championship hasn't changed the Ivy League atmosphere at North Shore Country Day School in Winnetka. "I'm just another teacher here," said football coach M. J. (Mac) McCarty.

McCarty, a 40-year veteran who was winning games when Bear Bryant still was a collegian, thinks his current squad is better than the 10-1 outfit that reached the Class 1-A semifinals two years ago. But Saturday's game with Lake Forest Academy isn't as important as next week's math test.

"A group of players from the 1953 and 1954 teams held a reunion last week," said McCarty, "and they said everything was the same as when they played. No pep talks, no rah-rah, no pressure. Our kids just play for enjoyment."

At North Shore, monuments to overemphasis go begging. The players' pants are 10 years old. A new scoreboard has been sent to a repair shop on two occasions and still doesn't work. New bleachers have been installed, but parents still prefer to follow the action by walking along the sideline and kibitzing with the players.

"The state playoff hasn't had any effect on our program," said McCarty, "but I've noticed a lot more kids have joined the cheerleading squad. I never noticed them before. Now we've got about 16 cheerleaders. And we only have 28 players on the varsity."

BECAUSE NORTH SHORE is the only 1-A school (enrollment: 161) in the Chicago area, McCarty must manipulate his schedule. The Raiders face only three 1-A opponents. They already have beaten Chicago Catholic League junior varsity squads from Gordon Tech and St. Rita, which are considered 3-A opponents by the Illinois High School Assn.

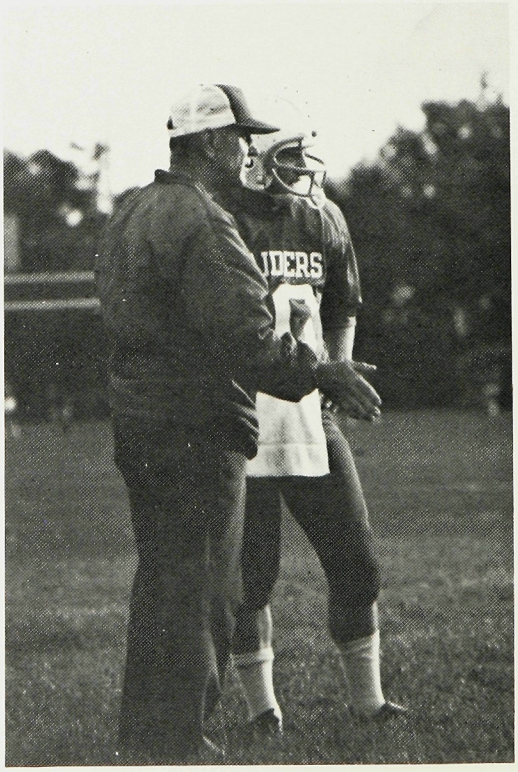

"That St. Rita game showed us a lot," said McCarty. "It was 0-0 at halftime and we scored twice in the third quarter. Our kids fired themselves up. They want to go back to the state playoff. No one thought they could do it the first time. But some of these kids were there before and it was an exciting time."

The ones who remember that memorable 1977 trip are halfbacks Miller Bransfield, Terry McManus, Donnie Peters and Jeff Foreman, center Matt Weisenberg and quarterback Mike Elisha. "They are our nucleus, our leaders. Many of these kids have been together since the sixth grade," said McCarty.

UP FRONT, THE RAIDERS make do with 150-pound guards and 180-pound tackles. Because his passing game isn't clicking, McCarty must rely almost entirely on "the most powerful running game I've ever coached." Chief blockers are John Tilmon, Mark Feinberg, Dan Askow and Jon Appelbaum.

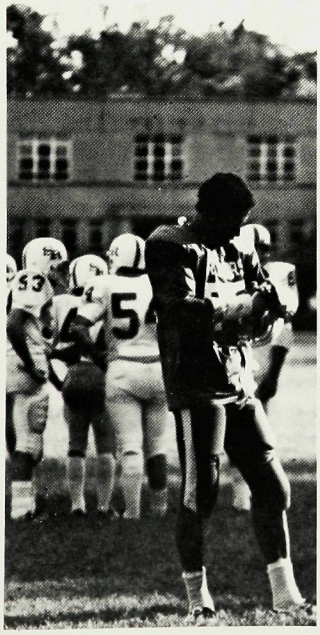

That's the good news. The bad news is three starters were sidelined last week with various ailments—McManus (broken thumb), Peters (ankle) and end Tom Todd (ill)—and McManus is the only one who may play Saturday.

"To qualify for the state playoff, you must have no injuries and you must be awfully lucky," said McCarty. "It would be the crowning achievement of my career to win a state championship. But the world won't come to an end if it doesn't happen."

Cheerleaders

The 1979-1980 cheerleading squad at North Shore was a group of nineteen girls of all sorts of shapes, sizes and personalities. This year's squad was unique because it was not a clique. The cheerleaders participated in various school activities. The cheerleaders at North Shore organized their own numbers. This is why our routines were not very complex and were below the standards of other schools. To us, it has been more important to be creative and have fun than to make cheerleading a job. Our main objective was to create school spirit while having a good time. I hope we were successful!

The Freshman Farm Trip

The Freshmen Trip— "Live and Learn"

For the past four years it has been the custom of the North Shore Country Day School to sponsor an orientation week in the country to benefit the incoming freshmen through interaction with upperclassmen. The week is spent at the Hannaford Farm near Aurora, Illinois. The outdoor education experience fosters new friendships among the freshmen and between the freshmen and their leaders.

Out of this comes a spirit of team work, a sense of the importance of learning, and working together as a group.

In addition to the personal relationships which develop, an awareness of nature and the environment is a natural outgrowth. The responsibility for others and our own surroundings which is stressed prepares all of us for a fulfilling and constructive future.

Anyone who has participated in the building of latrines, scrubbing grimy pots by flashlight, and exterminating the mosquito population, has learned to live a little!

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADE TRIP TO GEORGE WILLIAMS COLLEGE

In September, the seventh grade went to George Williams College to participate in an outdoor education program. We learned about the ecology of Lake Geneva and how that lake is just now recovering from disastrous effects of pollution. We studied rocks and fossils, and learned how glaciers created the land formations in our section of the country.

One of our favorite activities was orienteering. By reading maps and compasses, we found landmarks all around the George Williams' grounds. Everyone also enjoyed hebertisme, a group exercise that emphasized communication and team work. In the evenings we had campfires, skits, cookouts, and singing.

The first night away from home was hard, but we soon adjusted to our new circumstances—roommates and unluxurious accommodations, cold and rainy hours in a marsh, endless travels up and down the hills of the campus. The one thing we never quite accepted, however, was the mystery ford.

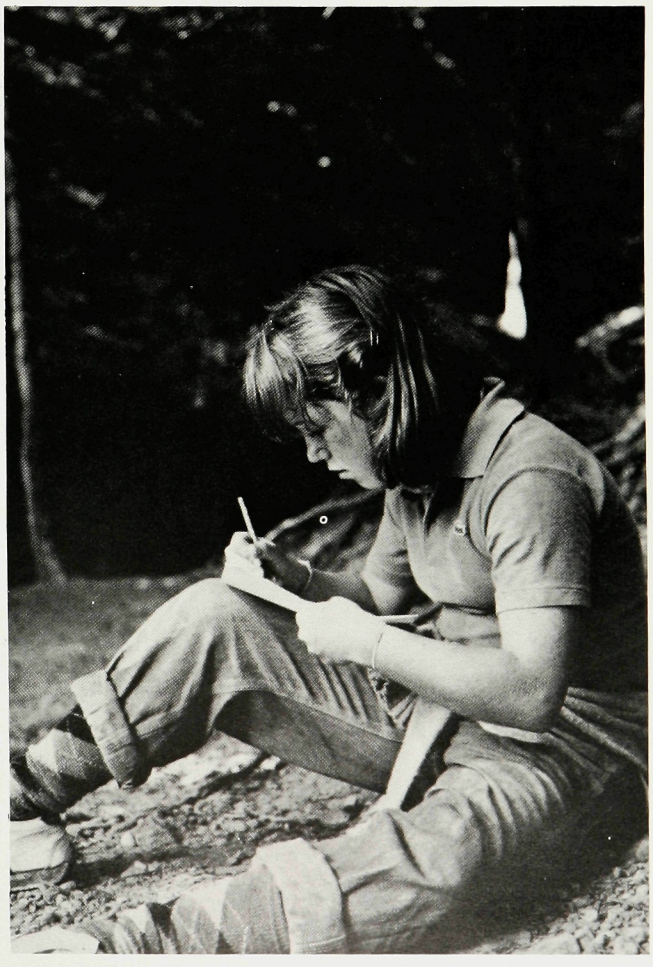

Most of all, we learned how to live together and get along with each other. By the end of our three-day trip we had formed lasting friendships with our teachers and classmates. We would do it all again!

Workday Cleans up its Act

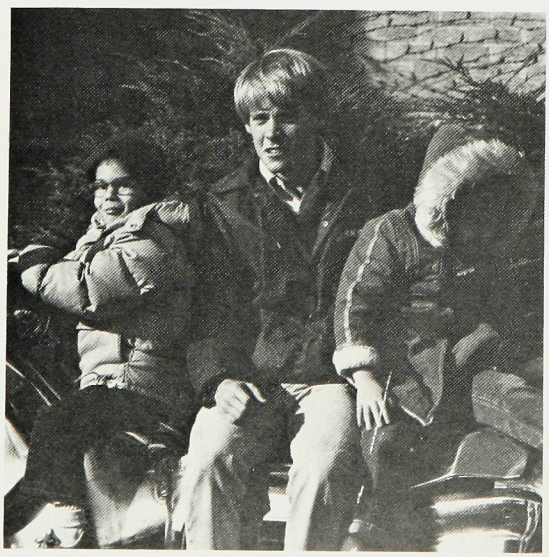

On a chilly day in October, all the students to to the fields armed with rakes, trash bags, and tro els to clean up the school. Everyone worked ha and had a lot of fun at the same time. Each of t upper school classes was combined with a low class in work teams to ensure efficiency.

Activities ranged from garbage collecting to bu planting to bus washing. Although temperatu were low, spirits ran high. Upper and low schoolers alike played a rousing game of Du Duck-Goose, while others were content to watch.

Then, after all the work was done, everyone s tled down enough to enjoy the best part of the d the ice cream bars.

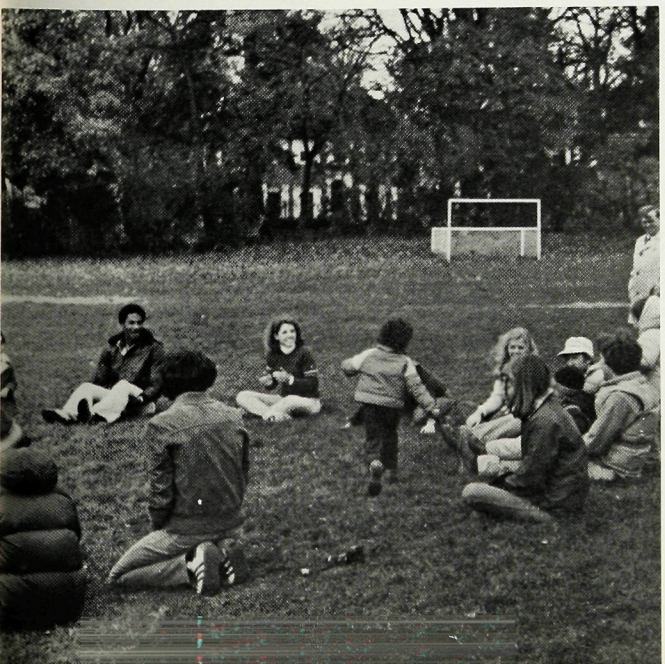

CARPENTER

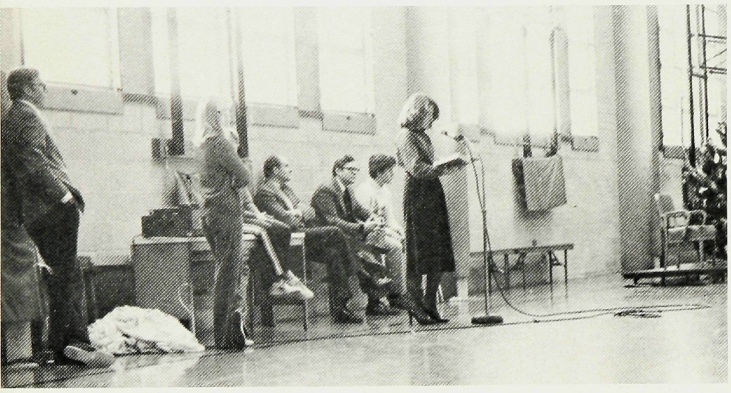

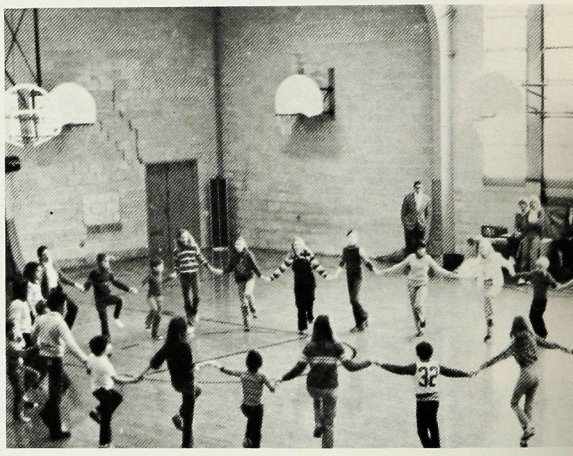

Santa Claus Party

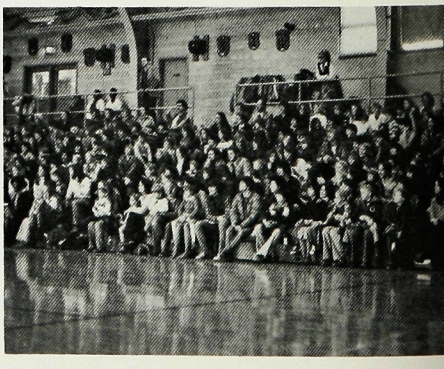

Dear Santa Claus,

Have a Merry Christmas. How are your reindeer? I have told you what I want. If you don't remember, I want Criss Cross racetrack for my friend and me. I want a race set. I want my friend to have a Merry Christmas.

Santa, bring my mom a microphone—the kind that you sing in. She sings at our house and she needs something to sing in. I like my mom, and there is one more thing, and that is I hope my mom has a Merry Christmas. My dad wants Merlin. He'll play games. He needs stuff for his mechanics like screw drivers and wrenches. He's got most of them already.

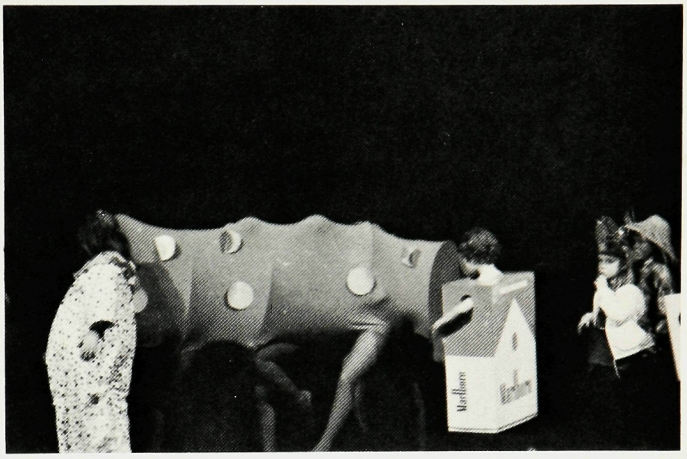

We will have reindeer food and cookies and milk. Come down the chimney. My mom gets confused and sometimes hangs my sock on the Christmas tree. She gets mixed-up a lot. That's the end of my story.

I have respect for you,
Michael Susk

MORNING EX
AT NORTH SHORE . . .

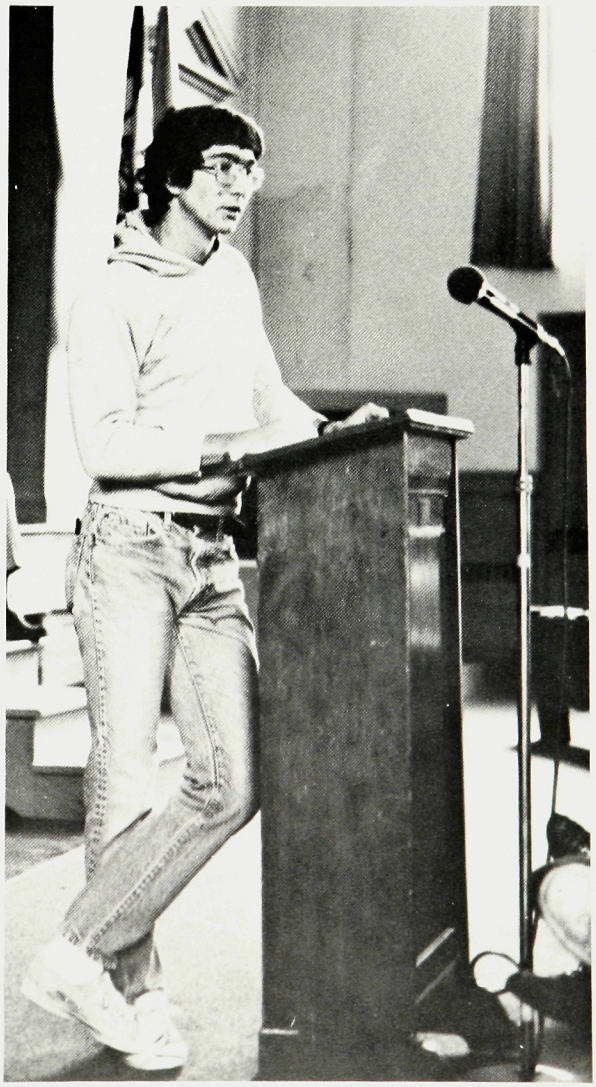

Special Speakers

Bonnie Consolo's visit to North Shore illustrated to students what courage is all about. Her determination in the face of an overwhelming handicap made everyday problems, such as homework, grades, and the lunch line seem trivial. More importantly she proved attitude and persistence are essential for success.

For an entire day this fall, Mr. Gordon Hall lec tured and spoke to several high school classes. I Morning Ex, he spoke about the apathy of the Ameri can people. He said that people in the United State are no longer interested in politics or in the running of the government. Mr. Hall discussed the politica parties and explained their similarities and differ ences. He also emphasized the fact that it was essen tial for everyone to vote and participate in the elec tion of our government officials.

Interim Week

Fledgling auto mechanics John Tilmon, Brian Perkins, and Tripp Klapperich learned the 'ins' and 'outs' of cars during their auto mechanics interim. Although they don't claim to be experts, they do feel that they have gained insight into the field of car maintenance.

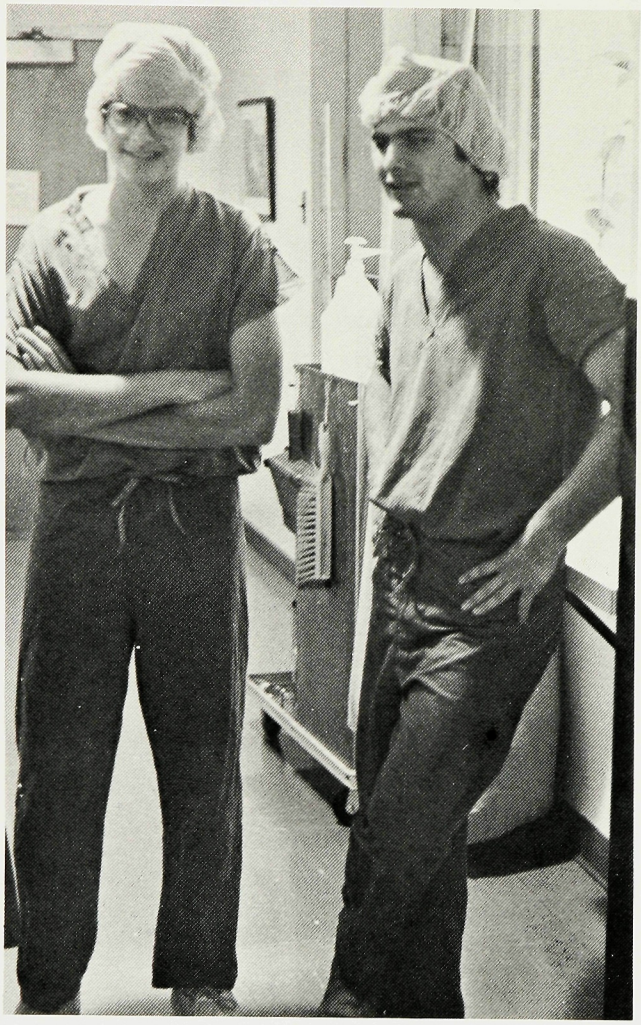

"Today we decided to go to Buckingham Palace to watch the Changing of the Guard. Walking along the road down The Mall, we saw the group of guards coming from the barracks to change. Arriving at the palace, we found that the guards were the Queen's Irish Regiment. The regiment's mascot was an Irish Wolfhound, which delighted us as my mother and I have a Wolfhound of our own.

After watching the guards change, we walked through St. James' Park and had a cup of tea. The park was gorgeous with all the changing colors of the leaves. There was a paved path along an area of lakes, and there were birds everywhere (which we fed)—cygnets, ducks, pigeons, pelicans, and many others. From the park, we walked to Westminister Abbey, which is like a history book.

—From Sharon Cooper's Journal about the London Trip.—

For their internship, Jeff Foreman and Dave Hine were apprentice anesthesiologists at Michael Rees Hospital. During the week they followed Dr. Edwar Toyooka on his rounds and even viewed open hea surgery which Hines surprisingly claimed was "no too hard to take." The experience was enjoyable, an did not significantly change their positive outlook o the medical profession.

The camping retreat held different values for each individual. The trip's goal was to establish a group which would work together to coordinate the individual's needs with those of the group's. It provided a chance for other members of the group to get out into the wilderness. We lacked many of the comforts of home. The trip was especially interesting because of relationships that developed between the teachers and the students.

The money market is explored at such places as the Chicago Board-of-Trade.

The Chicago Theatre interim gave students an inside look at dramatic productions in Chicago. Activities included tours of the Lyric Opera and the Auditorium Theatre. The students saw such renowned plays as "The Kingfisher," starring Rex Harrison, "Death of a King's Horseman," and "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" A backstage tour enabled the students to meet with the director and actors.

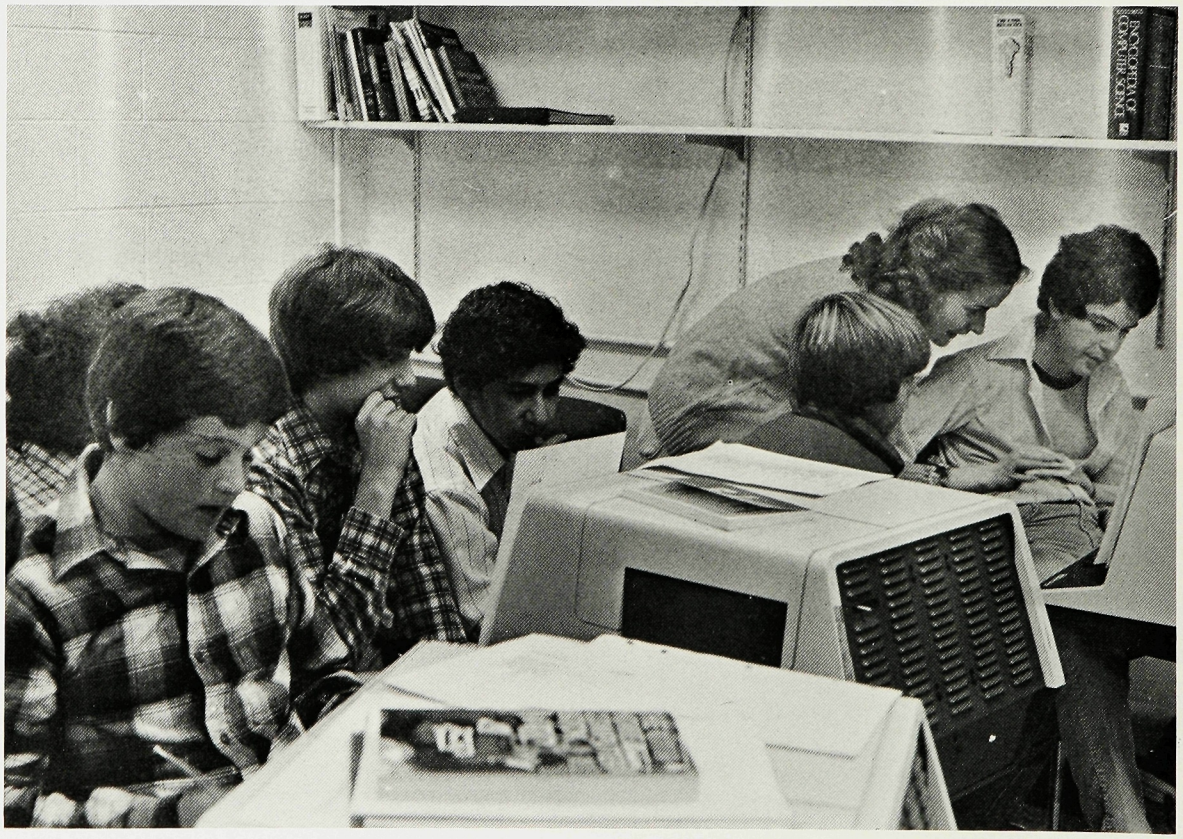

Nana Muschenheim works at a potters guild in Evanston.

Lauren Handelman worked in the chemistry laboratories at Northwestern Hospital.

The computer students practiced new techniques and analyzed various program problems. Interim leader, Miss Donoghue, said the students erased many no longer needed programs. They also expanded their knowledge on computers and how to program them.

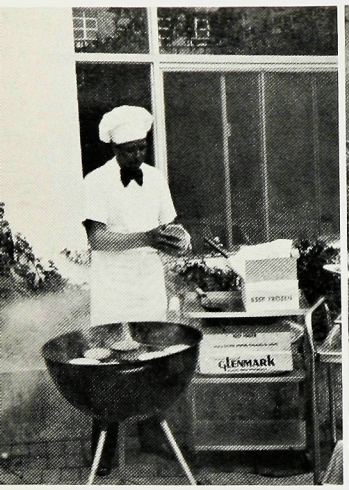

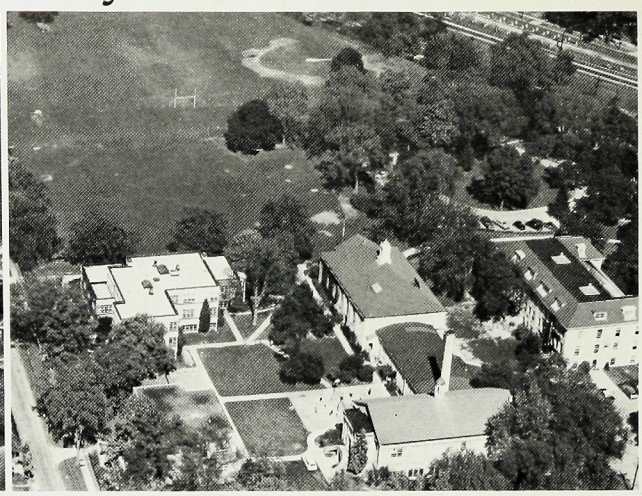

Mike Levy encounters a mixing board at Steeterville Recording Studio.

8th—12th graders find that teaching kindergartners can be a learning experience.

Sixty Years of Memories . . . .

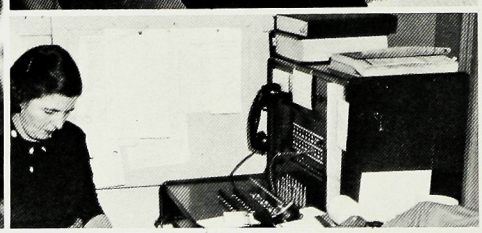

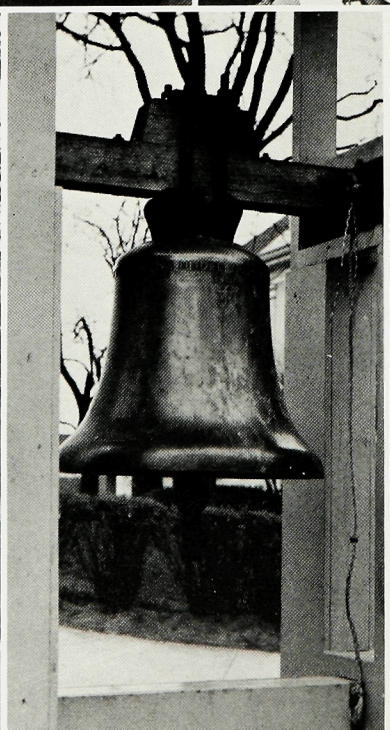

SENIOR PROPHECY

The date, June 11, the year, 2000 A.D., and you are there. Roger Linkletter here, reporting from the post party for the new smash hit, "Mabel," starring COURTNEY SPORE. Behind me you see the fabulous estate of BETSY BLANK, a famous New York actress. Her estate is tastely decorated in several shades of pink. I understand that the estate was decorated by the famous ERIC BRITTON. The party is being catered by the FRANKE-SAKS corporation, Tab, Tanquery, and Washington Apples.

The first car is now arriving. TERRY MC MANUS is driving his limousine with the driver riding in the back. There seems to be somebody running behind the limousine. I believe it's MIRIAM FEINSTIEN, the well-known wrestler and track star. She seems to be yelling something. AH! She's yelling, "Terry."

Now arriving, in his orange Porsche Turbo Cerrera, with a keg strapped to the top and a telephone pole being dragged behind, is MATT WEISENBERG, a famous pastry chef. Next to arrive is the well known KATY WALSH, orthopedic surgeon. She's worn out after just completing knee surgery on AIMEE GOLDSTONE. Aimee has just returned from her pre-school seminar, which lasted three years in outer Ethiopia. Not far behind is the seven foot replacement for Peter Frampton, PETER NELLES. Right behind him is TINA KEITH, head of Rummo-Jello corporation. She has brought along some samples.

Here comes ART HANDLEMAN, famous hearts player, and with him is the drummer of Peter's band, STEVE KING. Rushing in from the airport, it's FRANCESCA "CHARO" MAZZANTI, famous singer from Italy. New cover girl SUE SNYDER just arrived. TIM "DISCO KING" GARDELLA, the new owner of Studio 54 is here. Battling the title of chess champion are JOHN ABELMAN and JOSH KOPPEL. They couldn't be with us tonight. Number one scorer for the Bulls, SARAH PABST, is here, too. Owner of "St. Molly Girl" beer, MOLLY INGRAM, is discussing the merger of her company with Beer Belly Beer, owned jointly by MILLER BRANSFIELD and MICHEAL ELISHA. Freelance playboy JOHN TILMON finally arrived. But, of course, the last to arrive are MS. SAKS and MS. FRANKE. Well, that's all from this very special and interesting party . . .

The Class of 1980 would like to express its gratitude to our parents, teachers and fellow students for helping to make North Shore the great experience that it was for us, and for others as well.

Thank You
